State Leadership Conference

This year's State Leadership Conference was full of excitement and fun events. Whether a member attended workshops, was a voting delegate, or just enjoyed Kris Kueker's hula dance, the conference was excellent. The state officer team would like to thank all of those who attended the State Leadership Conference for making it such a great success. We hope everyone enjoyed the SLC this year. The winners from the conference are posted at the end of the newsletter.

CHAPTER NEWS

On March 9 Westminster College PBL Chapter organized a Business Ethics Panel. "Lately it seems as though scandals and corruption have become commonplace in the business world. In light of the Enron and World.Com scandals, not to mention Martha Stewart's recent ordeal, one may question whether or not ethics in the work place even exist. In order to gain insight on the issue, members of the Phi Beta Lambda chapter of Westminster College in Fulton, Missouri invited local business leaders to serve on a panel to discuss the topic. The event was open to all students and faculty.

Panel participants, who represented a variety of industries including accounting, banking, and manufacturing, offered their own unique perspective concerning common ethical issues faced in today's business world. Each stressed the importance of developing and following a specific value system that can be applied to both one's personal and professional life. Concerning recent corporate scandals, participants made clear that there exists a definite distinction between ethical issues faced in their own businesses and those faced on a corporate level. They explained that decisions made by large-scale corporations are often more complicated and affect a larger number of individuals than those made by smaller businesses. At the same time, however, decisions made in both categories should be based on a sound ethical value system.

One of the most interesting portions of the panel discussion occurred when panel participants gave specific examples of ethical dilemmas they have faced at some point in their career. After briefly explaining the issue, participants told students how they went about solving the problem. Thus, students were given real life examples of potential issues that may arise in business, along with a basis of how to go about solving such difficulties. All in all, students learned that ethics in business are still widely present and are ultimately vital to both the company's and business person's long-term success."
